Annex I - Definition of the terms coal and steel

1. The expressions « coal » and « steel » cover the products mentioned on the following list.
2. The action of the High Authority concerning special steel products, coke and scrap iron shall take into consideration the particular conditions of their production or trade.
3. With regard to gas coke and lignite used otherwise than for the manufacture of briquettes and semi-coke, the High Authority will exert its powers only to the extent required by any appreciable disturbances which these products might cause on the general market for combustibles.
4. The action of the High Authority must take account of the fact that the production of certain of the products on this list is directly linked to the production of by-products which are not mentioned but whose selling price may influence that of the basic products.
