As Spain held its fourth Presidency of the Council of the European Union and just a few months from the 25th anniversary of the country's accession, the Centre Virtuel de la Connaissance sur l'Europe (CVCE) officially launched its research project on 'Spain and the European integration process'.

This ambitious project is directed by Dr Cristina Blanco Sío-López, Researcher at the CVCE, with the academic cooperation of several institutional partners. The preliminary results have been published in anticipation of the final publication of the digital research corpus in 2013.

The originality of the project lies both in the research process and in the production and dissemination of results by means of information and communication technologies. Its research results and material are compiled in a corpus of documents which include a range of sources and a series of historical accounts constituting an oral memory of Spain's participation in the process of European cooperation and integration. Several academic, educational and communication activities will also serve to add value to the research results.
