Knowing the past to build the future

With the support of the Luxembourg Ministry of Higher Education and Research.

‘Progressive use of the European unit of account, followed by the issuing of new banknotes and coins, will make Europeans aware of their shared destiny.’

PIERRE WERNER

ORAL HISTORY

www.cvce.eu

Interviews with contemporaries provide a unique personal take on history, with eyewitness accounts from those who have left their own mark on the European integration process. The CVCE offers online access to exclusive interviews produced by its specialist team that shed new light on the past.

‘[Europe] will be built through concrete achievements which first create a de facto solidarity.’

ROBERT SCHUMAN

‘[Our Assembly] follows on in the path traced by those who have sat in this House from the time when, a generation ago, the European and the democratic ideal were brought together.’

PUBLICATIONS

www.cvce.eu

Here you will find a wide range of publications geared towards the research and education communities and the wider public. The CVCE's digital publications contain more than 20 000 historical documents, cartoons, photos, videos, interactive maps and diagrams, and academic articles.

‘We want to be German Europeans and European Germans: aspiring to that goal is the most important lesson that we can draw from our turbulent history and from our geographical position at the heart of Europe.’

HELMUT KOHL

RESEARCH & EDUCATION

www.cvce.eu

The CVCE offers innovative approaches to information on the European integration process. On the openly accessible website www.cvce.eu, the history of Europe since 1945 is presented via a series of publications. Major themes include European organisations, states and the European integration process, key European figures, and ideas, values and identities.
